CORRECTIONAL TELEHEALTH

Your partner in responsible care for inmate populations

From on-site staff to virtual visits, Tribal Health provides seamless medical and behavioral services for correctional systems - even in remote locations.

Roughly 20–25% of people in United States jails and state prisons have a serious mental illness.¹ But psychiatrists, counselors, and psychiatric nurse practitioners often hesitate to work in correctional facilities. Transporting and guarding inmates is expensive - and hospitals can lack adequate security to safely treat inmates in clinical settings.

Flexible care options. Real security.

Tribal Health's psychiatrists and psychiatric nurse practitioners offer both onsite and virtual access to cost-effective behavioral healthcare and mental health support.

Licensed in multiple states, our providers have both forensic experience and expertise in correctional health. Our services can:

- Reduce transport costs for offsite inmate treatment
- Include psychiatric evaluation and medication management
- Minimize the risk of undertrained medical staff monitoring inmates with behavioral health needs
- Improve disruptive inmate behavior and reduce suicide attempts in correctional environments

Bridge behavioral health gaps in correctional systems. Bring expert onsite and virtual care to inmate populations.
